

Funded by Erasmus+ GreenCity

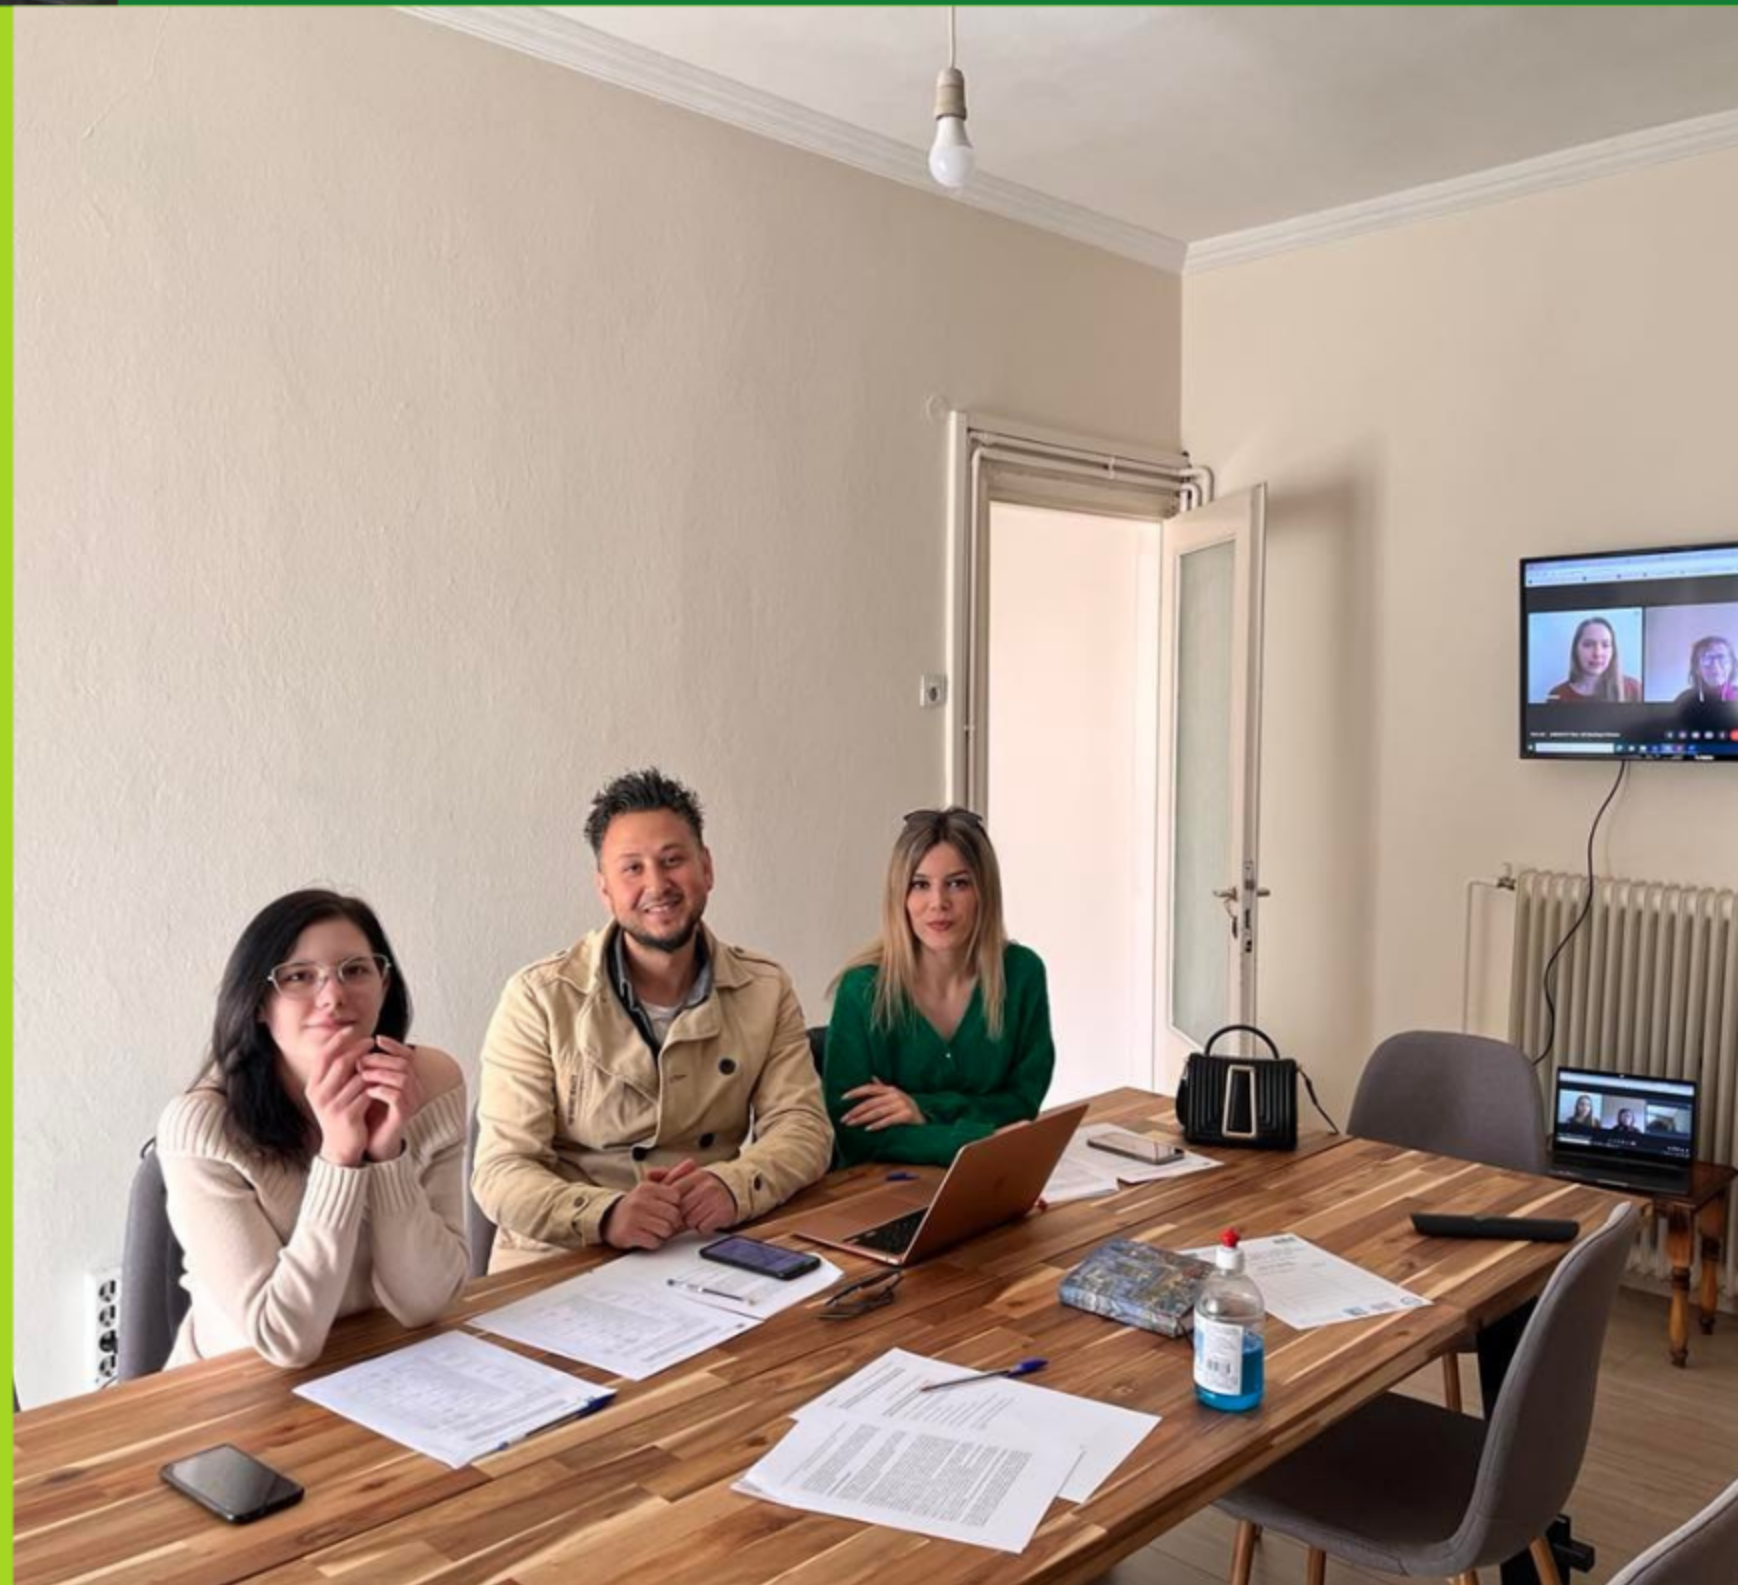

Green City project is back with another newsletter! In the past few months we have been hard at work on developing project strategies, doing research and organizing exciting meet-ups. In this edition we share some details on what has already happened as well as what to expect in the future. So keep reading and get inspired!

Partners

Kick-Off Meeting

Our kick-off meeting was everything we could have hoped for. It was held by the coordinators of the project - VERDE - in the beautiful city of Kozani, Greece. In the time spent there, we talked about our future actions, realistic goals and what we should focus on first. After that we had some time to explore the beautiful city of course!

Project Manual Development

The manual for our project is turning out amazing. Urban gardening and green economy are topics which are incredibly important and as such have a lot of information about them. Our manual turns this vast sea of content into an easy-to-read system which keeps the reader's interest. Each partner is responsible for one chapter, meaning the work is distributed equally, while allowing for everyone to express their individual style. In the manual you will be able to find information about green economy as a whole, the benefits of urban gardening, the social inclusion which can be achieved by making such a space as well as best practices in each of the partnering countries. These and many more curious facts will be a part of our manual, so make sure you read it when it's published.

First Transnational Project Meeting

Following our kick-off meeting which we talked about above, we got hard at work on the project tasks. In order to make sure everything was on the right track, after a few months we decided to meet again. Our meeting was held in the city of love - Paris - and was organized by our wonderful partners - E-Seniors. During our time there, they shared their remarkable work - a beautiful website dedicated to our project. After that, we discussed the aforementioned manual by focusing on both content and visual representation. Finally we discussed the following year's workshop events and how they should be organized. After all of the main topics had been discussed we had time to walk around the beautiful capital - a well-deserved reward!

